Sierra Madre Playhouse to celebrate 100th production

Plans are taking off for the celebration of the 100th production of the Sierra Madre Playhouse, located at 87 W. Sierra Madre Blvd.

That 100th production is scheduled for opening dates of Friday and Saturday, Mar. 5 and 6, when the playhouse inaugurates its 14th season with "Dames At Sea," directed by Kathy Fitzpatrick.

Among those attending opening night festivities, which will be accompanied by a parade of 1930 vintage autos, will be Sierra Madre Mayor Gary Adams and his wife, Joyce, and Sharon Lefler, president of Civic Club.

Playhouse supporters/sponsors met Sunday at the theater to enjoy the new marquee, paid for by "Angels" Mary and Terrance Roseen and Ruth and Russell King.

Prior to the first production, "Moby Dick-Rehearsed," directed by Ken Rose, Pasadena Playhouse alumnus and staff, in 1981, Charles Andrese and Cheryl Pertile founded The Playback Players which was the springboard to the Sierra Madre Playhouse.

Andrese continues as president/producer, and Stan Zalas is artistic director/secretary. Andrese is a former actor/director with 40 years of theater experience, and Zalas is a retired drama/English teacher with degrees in theater from the Pasadena Playhouse College of Theater Arts and California State University, Los Angeles.

As of Sunday, there were only 58 tickets left to Friday evening's 8 p.m. production, "Dames At Sea," and only 80 left for Mar. 6, the Saturday evening production. There are 100 tickets in the theater.

Tickets to this special production are $20 each with the deadline of Feb. 12. They can be purchased by calling the theater at (818) 355-4318. Merchants who wish to have their advertisements in the special souvenir program should call Stan Zalas at that number.

Also, those sponsors who wish to have their names listed in the souvenir program, at $20 each, are encouraged to call that number. Merchants who wish to donate a gift or certificate for their services will receive program acknowledgement and two complimentary tickets to one of the shows. Deadline on all of these opportunities is Feb. 12.

Subsequent pieces will be written on this opening night celebration, Mar. 5, and the following evening, Saturday, Mar. 6.

SPONSORS, ANGELS — Among those "friends" of the Sierra Madre Playhouse pictured who are becoming sponsors and "angels" include the following, not in order: Mary Stoddard, Barbara Cline, Mary and Terrance Roseen, Verna Chilton, David Crandell, Maggie York, Nancy and Bill Patterson, Karen Corazzelli and Judy Webb-Martin. The Roseens and Ruth and Russell King were responsible financially for the new marquee which the committee listed above admired. The Sierra Madre Playhouse celebrates its 100th production (the first being in 1981) on the weekend of Mar. 5 and 6, Friday and Saturday, when a special parade, music and refreshments will be featured as part of the show.

SM Rose Float meeting Jan. 25

By Nancy Patterson

Sierra Madre Rose Float Association will elect new officers and board members at their general meeting on Monday, Jan. 25, 7:30 p.m., at the Senior Center.

Members are encouraged to attend this very important meeting.

Refreshments will be served after the meeting, compliments of Tensie Benson and Kathleen Logue. New members are welcomed.

Tickets going fast for Citizen/ Installation Dinner Jan. 21

Tickets are going fast for the 27th Annual Citizen of the Year Presentation and 1993 Installation of Officers Dinner to be held Thursday, Jan. 21 at the Holiday Inn at 924 W. Huntington Dr., Monrovia.

Those wishing tickets, at $20 each, should call the Main Street Chamber at 355-5111.

On that evening, Dorothy Hobiack, who has lived in Sierra Madre since 1957, will be honored as 1992 Sierra Madre Citizen of the Year.

That evening will also mark Installation of Officers of the Sierra Madre Main Street Chamber of Commerce, and Susan Taylor Colby will be installed as president.

Other officers include Karen Corazzelli, vice president; Don Murphy, secretary; and Bill Sullivan, treasurer. Corazzelli is co-owner of KC's Closet; Murphy owns Don Murphy Architecture; and Sullivan owns The Bottle Shop.

Other board members include the following for one-year terms: Patricia Kocsis, Affiliated Counseling and Psychological Center; Jacki Raymond, Creative Arts Group; Ruth Salem, Right Way Travel; Murphy; and Gilbert Lucero, Restaurant Lozano.

Those serving two-year board terms are Joan Sheets, Little Stuga; Helen Elliott, The Spinning Wheel; Mike Delgatto, Pantorium Cleaners; Susan Taylor Colby; and Emelita Bituin, Sanwa Bank.

Those members serving three-year terms are Barbara Cline, resident; Bill Sullivan; Judy Webb-Martin, Webb-Martin Realtors; Frank Van Dongen, Harlequin Galleries; and Corazzelli.

Phyllis Bennet of Phyllis Bennet Designs is an alternate board member.

Activities begin on Thursday, Jan. 21, at 6 p.m. with the cocktail hour and dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m.

At the first Main Street Chamber of Commerce board meeting of the year, Jan. 5, the following chairs were chosen for the five councils: Promotion Council, Joan Sheets; Design Review Council, Joe Catalano; Economic Development Council, Frank Van Dongen; Community Development Council, Bill Sullivan; and Organization Council, Karen Corazzelli.

Because of the Citizen of the Year and Installation Dinner, there will be no mixer this month. Next month's mixer is scheduled for the third Thursday, as usual.

SM spring newsletter in Jan. 28 edition

The city of Sierra Madre will send its spring newsletter with the Sierra Madre News in the Jan. 28 edition. This will be an expanded circulation that will be sent to every residence in Sierra Madre plus all the addresses of our subscribers.

Those of you who wish to run advertising in this edition should call The News at 355-3324.

News accepts payments

The Sierra Madre News now accepts payments on the following utilities: CableVision, GTE, Southern California Edison and Southern California Gas. Those payments are processed and sent on to the utility the same day they are received, during weekdays.

All bills dropped through the door slot on the weekends are processed and sent in on Monday.

The News also serves as a drop station for United Parcel.

Russian students visit Sierra Madre during exchange program

When one thinks of Siberia, the picture that usually emerges is one of deep snow, deep chill, dark days.

Not so, say two women from Vladivostok, a city 10,000 miles from Moscow on the lower tip of Siberia - a city located on the finger of land surrounded on three sides by water. It is the southernmost city in Russia, on the same parallel as Japan, Korea and China.

Natasha Kostrykina, 20, and Marina Avdyushkina, 22, both from Vladivostok, who have been visiting Betty and Spencer Edwards in Sierra Madre, say they are a little homesick for the ocean breezes. The weather there is much like Seattle, Wash. They are in an exchange program, attending California State University in Sacramento.

They are also two of the 10 exchange students from all of Russia to participate in the program sponsored by the United States Information Service/ Agency.

The Russian women enjoy the vegetables and fruits here, and state that the difference in meals is the noon meal, which, in Russia, is the main meal.

Natasha Kostrykina and Marina Avdyushkina

The women arrived in the U.S. on Oct. 11, 1992, and will leave America on May 28 to return to their studies at Far Eastern University in their hometown.

Fowler running for PUSD board seat

Lisa Fowler, Sierra Madre resident since 1974 and former City Councilwoman as well as Mayor, is running for a seat on the Pasadena Unified School District board.

"I believe deeply that the institution of public education will be preserved and revitalized only with the participation and enthusiasm of the entire community," Fowler said. She continued, "Public education is not just an issue for school age children, parents and teachers. We must have the attention, focus and commitment of all segments of the community. These children are our future society."

Fowler, who is now employed as administrative analyst with the Recreation and Parks Department in Pasadena, taught in the Pasadena Unified School District from 1973 to 1985. After a short hiatus, she worked for Aerojet Electro-Systems for 2½ years before continuing with her education, attending the Peter F. Drucker Executive School of Management, which is part of the Claremont Graduate School.

After having taught strings in the Pasadena School System earlier, Fowler went to Marshall and taught ages 6 through 12 in the marching band, concert band and orchestra. During that time she took the orchestra on to superior levels on both local and regional competitions.

In 1987 she married Douglas Farrell, an attorney in Sierra Madre, and they had a daughter, Megan. After staying home with Megan for a period of time, Fowler went back to resume her career in municipal management and has been in her present position since that time. Megan is now 4 years old.

The seat for which Fowler is running is No. 3, that of Dr. Wilbert Smith. Another challenger, Jeffrey Commons of Pasadena, is also running for that seat. Election is Mar. 9.

Lisa Fowler

Fowler was born and reared in Monrovia and has lived in this area all her life.

Anyone who would like more information about Fowler should call Olive Buchan at 355-6589.

SM businesses concerned about their future

A statement in the latest Wistaria Vine newsletter sent out by the city has many merchants concerned about the future of their businesses.

Under "Business License Changes," a statement was made as follows: "In 1994, license fees will be based on the gross income of each business, rather than the current fixed rate."

Merchants up and down the street, both retail and non-retail, voiced great concern about what such an action would do to a business that is "on the cusp" of survival.

One businessman said, "I am not about to reveal my gross income."

Others explain that their gross and net are so close that an added licensing fee would put them out of business.

The News called Sean Joyce, assistant city administrator, who explained that it is "being contemplated" and that the City Council is "exploring it" as a revenue-builder.

The News has reported the results of a meeting two months ago at which City Council members and Doug Berkshire, the finance director, discussed various methods of raising revenue. At that meeting, however, no action was taken.

It has not passed the City Council. Although the sentence reads that it has passed and is "the law," it has not and is not.

Under the Pepper Tree

by Jan Reed

● This seems to be the week for out-of-town news, news of the snowbirds from the Midwest flocking to warmer climes. Marbee James has fled to Texas for three months; Vona and Clete Sharer have fled to Mesa, Ariz.; however, George and Sallie Tolley, dear friends from Chicago who were here, have gone back to the brrrr weather. I can still feel that icy wind blowing off the lake when we lived there 1000 or so years ago.

● It was interesting that the Sharers immediately saw a piece in the Phoenix paper concerning our nephew, Jon Kyl, who is Congressman from that area of Arizona. Clete mentioned how much Jon looks like his father and remembered earlier days when John was much younger than Jon....

● Then we received a heavenly gift from Mimi Shewey in Sturgis, S.D. - Marolf Dakota Farms Cheese. You can buy it in the stores here and we do, oh, do we. It was delicious to the last crumble.

But here's really the clincher: one of the principals of the school there is the brother of Marilyn Daleo, who does PR for the Arcadia (Calif.) schools. His name? Ed Stader. Now is this world small or not?

Mimi is also one of our most avid readers of The News and checks out what area libraries and schools are doing, then passes it on to her friends in those areas. When the Halloween paper arrived and she read about the Arcadia school activities (principal dressing up as Cruella de Ville and the staff as "101 Dalmatians,") she cut it out and handed it over. The next morning the principal called and said, "Is this from Sierra Madre, CALIFORNIA?" It was Ed Stader. He said that had been his old stomping grounds and that his sister, Marilyn Daleo, etc., etc., etc.

Crazy world, isn't it?

● I have just finished going through all the Christmas cards once more. I always have to do that before filing them away. It was so much fun to reread all of the activities of you friends.

The tree is down, and all the Christmas/holiday "doodads" are put away.

● One of our readers happened upon several children who had taken it upon themselves to paint over the graffiti which had been sprayed on one of our city buildings, probably down at Sierra Vista Park. She didn't leave her name and she did not identify the children. But if this picture isn't indicative of what the good kids can do to clean up the world, then what is there?

Thank you out there, whoever you are. We need more of you.

● Last week, just before the paper was put to bed, it was announced at the Main Street Chamber board meeting that Craft Cellar was moving...It is for sale, but not moving. Our apologies.

● When the fire tone went off Monday and the fire was right in front of The News, we ran out in time to see the firemen doing a cleanup on the gasoline that was leaking from a VW. It was almost dark in this photo and soon thereafter the tow truck came to remove the auto. By this time it was far too dark to take a picture.

However, enjoy this one of your firemen at work....

Thanks to Little League

My wife and I want to thank you for the opportunity given to our son to participate in your Winter Baseball program which you just recently sponsored.

My son enjoyed playing in this instructional environment where he was given the chance to play different positions and try new things. His coach, Scott Oliver, was very supportive and very positive in his approach to the game. At this level it is still very much a game and baseball should be fun for the kids. I appreciate the way the league was set up and its purpose for the children.

I hope that you will be conducting this league again next year. I think it's good for the kids, especially the ones who really aren't into soccer. It gives them a chance to keep up with their skills and gives them the chance to "see" the ball more often so they get more comfortable on the field. Please let me know if you intend to put on the program again next year.

Once again, thank you all for your time and efforts in putting this program on for the kids.

Larry A. Tinker

P.S. It was fun for the parents, too.

Applause for retailer

The American Angel has managed to do an excellent job of retailing here in Sierra Madre!

As a former retailer myself, I really appreciated the extra effort they made in packaging a clock I was sending to my son and his wife in Guam (I had asked for gift wrapping and had mentioned in passing that the gift would be sent to Guam, expecting to package for mailing myself). American Angel not only did a beautiful job of gift wrapping, they also packaged the box for mailing.

A great service organization with outstanding gift selections.

HOFFA
Jack Nicholson, Danny DeVito
See. Sorry I gotta tell ya what I gotta tell ya, but Jack's unfailingly watchable performance as Hoffa is the only reason I'm recommending this one. A mass of suppositions wearing the pantyhose mask of truth, this film gives us a possible account of the happenings surrounding the birth of the Teamsters' Union, the confrontations with Robert Kennedy, and the disappearance of labor leader Jimmy Hoffa. So don't expect an in depth look into the personality of a dynamic individual with a dream, a la "Malcolm X."

BEAUTIFUL DREAMER
Rip Torn, Colm Feore
Not. While there is a notable performance by Torn as iconoclastic poet Walt Whitman and his positive influence on an insane asylum's psychiatrist, most of the balance of actors are sad excuses laboring under insipid lines.

Meals to be forgotten

By Harry Martin

The late O.O. (Oscar Odd) McIntyre was a first class journalist, and a world class gourmet. He knew and patronized the great restaurants of Europe and America in his never-ending quest for exotic foods. In contrast, he had a most unusual hobby. He loved to poke around the back alleys and byways of New York, looking for little hole-in-the-wall eating places where he might find the germ of a story (no pun intended). Some of them must have been unique, as "It was one of those places where even the cockroaches got discouraged, and would, occasionally, end it all in the mustard." It was my fate to encounter two such places in one day. But there was a difference. The cockroaches where I attempted to dine would have died of acute indigestion before they had a chance to take the final leap. It all happened on an October day in 1925.

Early one morning I entered a cafe in a small village in central Utah. I ordered hotcakes and coffee, a terrible mistake as it turned out. The cakes were apparently made of latex; they could have been cut into strips and used for flippers. A liberal dose of syrup killed the taste but did nothing for the elasticity of the cakes. The coffee was a worthy companion. It probably was made of old rubber heels with perhaps a rusty muleshoe thrown in for extra flavor. Totally undrinkable.

I got into my car and headed for Las Vegas, Nev., 225 miles away over mostly dirt roads. Only in the larger towns were stretches of pavement. After 10 hours of rough roads, the lights of Las Vegas came into view, and less than an hour later I pulled up in front of the Sal Sagev Hotel (Las Vegas spelled backwards). Across the street a brightly-lit restaurant promised food and warmth, and I was in need of both. It didn't take long to check into the hotel, clean up and get across the street, look at the menu and order a sirloin steak. I waited with impatience, but what a letdown, what a disappointment. The steak was huge, overlapping both ends of the platter. One end of the steak was bloody raw, the other end burned black. It took an extraordinary chef to accomplish that. Selecting a neutral area, I managed to cut a bite of meat and started chewing. Another surprise. The meat refused to be masticated by perfect teeth and strong jaws. Instead, it started swelling up, and the harder I chewed the larger the chunk of meat grew. I was afraid of choking, so I managed to get it out of my mouth without too much commotion. I tried another bite, with the same result. I gave up. That steak must have been cut from a senior citizen rhinoceros. I ate the greasy potatoes, the discouraged pie and washed both down with a few swallows of tepid coffee. What an evening.

Hours before daybreak I left Las Vegas, intent on reaching Pasadena in another 12 hours. The road was horrible, especially in the darkness, and that stretch from Las Vegas to Daggett was an endless nightmare. At Daggett I picked up Highway 66. Ah, good old 66! Its skinny cement ribbon carried me up and over Cajon Pass, down through the orange groves and vineyards of San Bernardino, Cucamonga, Rialto and all the rest, and eventually right down Colorado Blvd. in Pasadena. It was night, and the lights were a welcome change from the desert's glare. I stopped at Fair Oaks Ave., leaned back and took a long stretch. Across the street was the Goodfellows Grill, a good restaurant. I had dined there many times when working in Pasadena a year or so previously. Behind me were three days of bad roads, two terrible meals, all tempered by the fact that I had made it. I had reached the Promised Land.

Out and About

By Dick Rogers

It's wet. It's down and dirty wet...my kind of wet. The kind of wet that makes one creative - or worse. One might even become introspective. Yeah! That's what is going on here. I'm introspective...and I know why. While waiting for some drywall mud to dry (seems like you could write a song about that), I started organizing my desk. Bad idea. I ran across some memories.

Recently, my high school in Brookline, Mass., held a 40th reunion for my class. I intended to go, but didn't. After the fact, they sent me a copy of our original class book complete with the original photos but now including updated bio information. I should have resisted the impulse to open this.

The faces I saw came back to life - and the settings, but the words beneath too many of the photos stilled everything:

James Donovan - In Memory
Frederick C. Douglas - In Memory
Mitzi Galpern - In Memory

Out of a class of nearly 500, 33 were dead. Some I knew well, others I recall as faces in classes and nothing more.

I would check on matters of the heart. The flame of my life as a 16-year-old was Patricia Cotter...what's this? Patricia Cotter Smart! She married someone named "Smart?" Oooh. She lives in Luxemborg. Were we close, you ask? Uh, no...she didn't know I existed. It was a one-way thing. And the second flame of my youth - Paula Lothrop, a drum majorette, became a bag lady and died in the streets at a young age.

The class beacon - the one whom everyone pinned significant hopes on was Albert "Bud" Krapf. Class president, the lead role in "H.M.S. Pinafore," personable and quiet, he went on to West Point. We all knew he would become a general. Irony of ironies, he became a teacher and a leader in peace activities. This, long before the activism of the '60s.

I can't look at these photos too long. I find myself actually going through the events of that time so long ago. That's not bad, I know, but it is sad:

Oft in the stilly night,
Ere slumber's chain has bound me,
Fond Memory brings the light
Of other days around me;
The smiles, the tears,
Of boyhood's years,
The words of love then spoken;
The eyes that shone
Now dimmed and gone,
The cheerful hearts now broken.

CHIROPRACTIC OUTLOOK
By Dr. ARTHUR J. KEENAN

OSTEOARTHRITIS

Sooner or later, everyone gets osteoarthritis. Look at it this way: arthritis is a sign that you have been active and used your body well and lived longer than your joints were probably programmed to work.

Even young people can suffer from arthritis; it often follows sports injuries, for instance.

Your doctor of chiropractic offers a natural, no-drug treatment for arthritis that can help unlock joints "glued" together by adhesions. By gradually initiating a better range of motion in a progressive body-balancing program, chiropractic can often restore flexibility and do away with stiffness.

Chiropractic treatment eases pressure on spinal segments, restoring alignment and free movement to the joints.

Letters from home

John Harkness

Having polled about everything else, over in Arizona they studied Christmas fruitcake.

Ninety percent of the folks said they would not think about giving a fruitcake to a friend. One respondent said he would give one only to someone he disliked. This fellow said he'd never never tasted the rum-flavored creation, but knew he wouldn't like it and, "Besides, everybody makes fun of it." Logic is logic.

The crowning insult came from a grocer (anonymous, by choice) who said his store ordered fewer each year, but "We end up marking them down so they're about free. Employees use the surplus as door stops."

One of the bigger churches back home about paid off the mortgage selling fruitcake. The half dozen ladies baking the confection had a secret recipe. They always sold out for the season before starting to bake.

Their product was expensive. There were no detractors. Word of mouth increased orders every year.

Their success story ended when the new young minister told the ladies he had identified the secret ingredient and because of its intoxicating propensities, he thought their baking should cease.

For their part, the cooks suggested that he seemed embarrassingly expert in discovering their secret, much more exotic than demon rum. As a result, the whole event was shrouded in secrecy. But sales stopped.

Herman Hoke explains most tastes by saying, "It all depends what you grow up on."

There are tastes that have to be acquired. I never thought much of foods that have to be drowned in taste-killing sauces.

Tried caviar only once. I can have a whole meal ruined if the salad bowl has been rubbed with an anchovy.

Always did like pickled herring and lutefish, but will leave escargot to the French, and seagulls.

A famous old recipe called for cooking a carp on a pine plank. When cooked, the diner was advised to throw the fish away and eat the plank.

On the other hand, I was present when 40 men ate carp, deeply scored, and cooked in deep fat. To a man, they proclaimed the fish "the best they had ever eaten," until they asked for the recipe. Ah, prejudice.

Back to fruitcake, which needs new P.R., something like: "All diets should include fruit and fiber. Try the new sensation - no cholesterol, low in fat, high in vitamins."

Or simply add some to a new kid's breakfast cereal: "Fruit and Cake Crumbles." Mark the box $2.75 and buy TV time. Mikey will like it.

Du gustibles non est disput and um.

Senior Center offers special programs for seniors, handicapped

Seniors and the handicapped have a chance at several special programs at the Senior Citizen Center within the next two months.

Metro Access for Sierra Madreans with disabilities, both permanent and temporary, have an opportunity to participate in a specialized Dial-A-Ride program funded by the Los Angeles County Transportation Commission.

Applications are available at the Senior Citizens' Center now and on Jan. 21, Metro Access staff will be at the Senior Center to complete applicants' screenings. Those wishing further information should call 355-7135, ext. 257 or 227. Also, further information is available by calling 1-800-827-0829 or TTD 1-800-827-1359 (for the hearing impaired).

Also available will be tax return preparation assistance under the auspices of AARP. Those wishing assistance should call the Senior Center for an appointment because AARP tax preparers will be at the center each Thursday, beginning Feb. 4, from 1 to 4 p.m. Bring last year's returns and current documentation. Phone 355-7135, ext. 257, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Classes for the AARP Mature Driving Program, 55 Alive, will hold classes on Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 22 and 23, 8:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m., at the Sierra Madre Recreation Center.

After eight hours of instruction, graduates receive a DMV certificate, entitling them, by law, to a discount on their automobile insurance for three years. After that period, seniors can repeat the class to renew their discount. This makes the program an investment in safer driving as well as a cost saving.

Tuition is $8 per person.

Those wishing more information should call the same number, 355-7135, ext. 257, Monday through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., for required reservations.

Police Blotter

Sierra Madre Police answered 89 calls during the past week. On Jan. 4, 7 and 8, there were no major crimes reported. Other service calls included the following:

Jan. 5:

A runaway parked vehicle ran off the roadway, hitting shrubs and a fence in the 200 block of E. Montecito.

A male, 35, of Sierra Madre, was arrested on a felony child abuse case in the 200 block of E. Laurel.

Jan. 6:

A front door screen was damaged, resulting from a neighbor dispute. The suspect is a female, 35, of Sierra Madre. The location is the 200 block of Santa Anita Court.

Unlawful backing from an angle parking stall was the cause of a collision between two vehicles in the 100 block of N. Baldwin.

Failure to yield to oncoming traffic was the cause of a noninjury collision between two vehicles at Mountain Trail and Orange Grove.

Two males, 21 and 22, were arrested for attempted burglary in the 100 block of N. Baldwin when they were scared off by the victim entering his home. The suspects were gathering stereo and computer equipment when they were discovered.

Jan 9:

Entry was through a side window during a burglary in the 400 block of Foothill. Loss was $1350 of a VCR and TV.

Jan 10:

Graffiti was discovered on a sign in the 200 block of N. Canon.

Rescue Team participates in rescue of flier from mountain peak

By Jon Inskeep

Late last Thursday afternoon, Herman Ross, of Olivehurst, Calif., crash-landed his small private plane near the top of San Jacinto Peak, one of the highest mountains in Southern California. Ross survived the crash, at an elevation of 9200 feet, due to the soft, deep snow which cradled the impact but which then completely covered his plane. His problem then became how to survive the extreme cold and winter blizzard conditions which then surrounded him.

His emergency radio was still operating and he was able to talk to commerical aircraft passing overhead, notifying them of his predicament and giving his altitude and compass heading. Other than letting the world know he was alive, this information was of little help in determining his exact location.

The Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Team was called at 5 p.m. Thursday afternoon by the Riverside Mountain Rescue Unit and asked to assist in the search. At the time, Sierra Madre was receiving torrential rains, while high on the mountain there was heavy snowfall, howling winds and near-zero visibility. It was just the kind of weather in which the local team performs best.

Ten team members, equipped with full winter expedition gear, left immediately for Palm Springs, where the tram was used for quick access to the upper part of the mountain. Forming into three smaller teams, the local men headed out on snowshoes into the dark and the storm. Each team carried radio direction-finding equipment since the plane's Emergency Locater Transmitter was operating, broadcasting a standard continuous emergency signal.

By dawn Friday, the local teams were spread out across the top of the mountain, closing in on the site. About noon, there was a break in the weather, and a U.S. Marine helicopter from El Toro spotted the downed flier and lifted him out. He had suffered only minor injuries.

The Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Teams walked back to the upper tram station through the heavy snow. Although the trek out took several hours, everyone agreed that it was a rewarding experience, the kind of life-threatening emergency in the wilderness for which no other mountain rescue team is better trained or equipped.

Future of Orange Grove meeting Jan. 19

Residents interested in the future of Orange Grove Ave., whether or not it will be changed dramatically, should attend the community meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 19, 6 p.m. at the Recreation Hall at 611 E. Sierra Madre Blvd.

Residents will review design plans for the improvement project on that street and a brief status report will be presented by Kev Tcharkhoutian, director of public works in Sierra Madre, as well as Arcadia's counterpart.

First meeting of Fourth of July Committee Jan. 20

The first meeting of the Fourth of July Committee is scheduled for the third Wednesday of the month, Jan. 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the Wistaria Room at the Recreation Center. This is a deviation of the usual third Thursday because of the Citizen of the Year dinner on Jan. 21.

According to Doug Hayes, chairman of the committee, all of the rest of the meetings will be held on the third Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m., at the Senior Citizen Center in Memorial Park.

"Everyone is welcome to come help us. We will be meeting every month through June," Hayes said.

Check out a video

The Sierra Madre Library has a new and fairly small video collection. However, it is growing and I thought it might be appropriate to let you know some of our policies regarding video checkout and also to give you a glimpse into what is new in this collection.

Videos are checked out for a 48-hour period and only two may be checked out at a time. They are not renewable and fines are $1 a day for overdues. Children, unaccompanied by a parent, may check out videos if their parent has filled out a consent form. There are lists of available videos at the front desk - both adult and children's.

Now for a list of some of those new titles soon to be available: For children: "The Little Prince," "Old Yeller," "Runaway Ralph," "Koko's Kitten," "The Velveteen Rabbit," "Treasure Island," "Stanley and the Dinosaurs," "Madeline's Christmas," "Babar and Father Christmas," "Encyclopedia Brown and the Case of the Missing Time Capsule," as well as others. For adults: "The Shootist," "Call of the Wild," "What Every Baby Knows: a Guide to Pregnancy and Childbirth," "Dance Fever: Ballroom," "Dance Fever: Country/Western," "Phar Lap," "Desperately Seeking Susan," "Touring America's Historic Inns," "Rain Forest," "Stretching for Seniors," and more.

Jill's Biblio-file

LOOKING FOR MR. GOODBAR
Judith Rossner

Remember the movie "Looking for Mr. Goodbar" based on Judith Rossner's book several years ago? I saw it for the first time a few months ago on cable, and, although dated, I knew the movie must have left out the meat, the heart and soul, of the book. The movie was gripping, but Terry Dunn, the central character of this tale, didn't seem to be "all there" (or at least her whole history wasn't presented in the film). I was right. The book is worth reading.

Dunn lives the Jekyl and Hyde existence of the disco era, as many young adults of the '70s "Me Generation" did to find an identity of their own while maintaining their place in the hip singles culture of the time. Prim, proper school teacher by day, Dunn picks up men in bars by night, sleeping around as was the fashion during the swinging singles, pre-AIDS era. However, Rossner fleshes Dunn out more than she could ever be realized in the movie. In the book, we learn much more about Dunn's skewed perception of her place in the family, her low self-esteem, her emotional desire for and intellectual rejection of love, and her confusion and unhappiness with her lot in life, over which she believes she has no control. Dunn indulges in promiscuous sex to get what she really craves - someone to hold her, to comfort her, to cherish her. But her yearning for this type of relationship, and commitment, will never be found in her one-night stands, which end when she picks up a man more confused than she.

Rossner creates a character in Dunn that, through the situations she endures in life, we can honestly view as a tragic heroine of the '70s. Dunn is doomed to fail in her quest for love and Rossner helps us understand her rather than condemn her.

COMMENT

THE COMMON MAN

The good Pro. Joe Krutch, of Columbia says that this age of the common man is too rapidly becoming the age of the common denominator and is leading us fast toward mediocrity. He reasons that when we champion any group, as of late we have championed the common man, we inevitably begin to idealize that group and then find ourselves with the idea that the common man is not only as good as any one else, but actually better. We make commonness a virtue.

The cure for this tendency is to cultivate a desire for excellence and to make excellence instead of commonness our ideal. And to regain our respect for such things as Righteousness, Integrity and Truth which have been so largely displaced by the term Normality. And to judge our children, not by how children usually behave or how most of them do, but by how they ought to behave.

Krutch says there really is nothing undemocratic about Excellence.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: MARGARET CHAVARRIA, aka MARGARET B. CHAVARRIA
Case No. BP019870

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both, of Margaret Chavarria, aka Margaret B. Chavarria.

A PETITION has been filed by Thomas A. Chavarria in the Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles.

THE PETITION requests that Thomas A. Chavarria be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on January 27, 1993 at 9:15 A.M. in Dept. 5 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in section 9100 of the California Probate Code. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a formal Request for Special Notice of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in section 1250 of the California Probate Code. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Some interesting figures are being disseminated by the Serendipity Company, a Los Angeles Group dedicated to putting on a full season of plays for children and young people. According to them, less than 10 percent of the United States has ever attended professional theater. Of the 10 percent, 85 percent are over the age of 40. And by the time average children are 10 years old, they have each spent one-fifth of their lives, two full years, in front of a television set. It has also been established that children who attend theater grow up to be adults who attend theater. This is not exactly news.

With the plethora of competing entertainment media, it is evidence of the indestructability of live theater that it survives at all. B

Library Friends Food ne Tasting scheduled Feb.

By Suzanne Kistner

The Friends of the Sierra Madre Library has scheduled its annual Food and Wine Tasting Benefit at the 1923 Alverno High School Villa, 200 N. Michillinda Ave., Sierra Madre, on Friday, Feb. 12, from 6:30-9:30 p.m.

This is an excellent way to show your support for the library while enjoying a fun night out with wine, food and live entertainment. Profits go to the library to purchase things such as computers, books, tapes and children's programs.

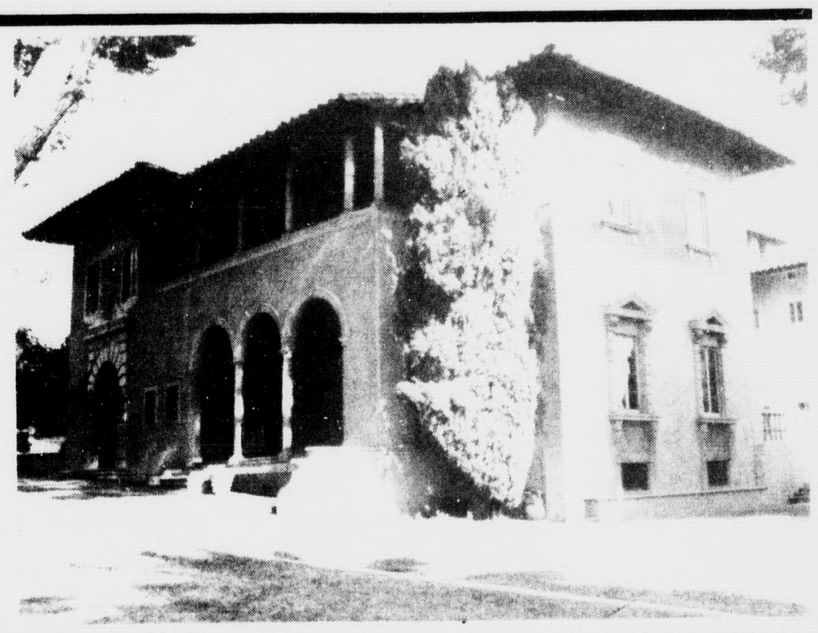

The 23rd event will feature wine from such vintners as Deer Valley, Landmark, Chateau St. Jean, Llords and Elwood, Sebastiani, Parducci, Robert Mondavi, Santa Barbara, Mirassou, Montecello Cellars, Preston and Girard. To complement the wines, food will be served by Restaurant Lozano, Green Street, Robin's, Stoney Point, Catering Spectrum and Fishermen's Wharf of Sierra Madre.

Philip O'Neil of Sierra Madre from Vintners International Company will once again be corporate sponsor and is giving $1500 to the library. The company will feature Deer Valley Wine.

Live entertainment will be presented by Louise King, founder of the Sierra Madre Trio. She is a pianist, accompanist, piano and voice teacher and has had concert experience in Carnegie Hall. Bobby-Jo Erickson will also be by t
orming. She is a Celt harp, voice, piano and guitar teacher and performer. Neil Mocanu will be presenting classical and Flamenco music on the guitar.

This year tickets bought prior to Feb. 8 will be $20. After this time, the price will be $25. Last year was a sellout, so be sure to buy your tickets early.

Tickets are available at the Sierra Madre Library, Happy's Wines and Spirits, Howie's Ranch Market Liquor and the Bottle Shop. Tickets can be ordered by sending a check payable to Friends of the Sierra Madre Library, 440 W. Sierra Madre Blvd., Sierra Madre, 91024.

New Year's Eve tradition takes group around the world

Following a tradition which began in 1988, a group of Monrovians have spent New Year's Eve together in foreign countries (Hong Kong, Paris, Nice and London) but this year they celebrated in Solvang, Calif.

Heralding in the New Year at the Peterson Village Inn, were Lillias and Dick Coombs, Josie and Chuck Ochoa, Janice and Jerry Marugg, Margie Ferguson of VIP Travel, who organized the venture, Allen Dworkin and Viola and Kenneth Kentner.

Solvang, a Danish village, is just over the mountain from Santa Barbara, and is steeped in traditional tile roofs and half timbered buildings. The Village Inn overlooks the Village Square with fountains, trees and flowers, as well as beautiful music.

The small, quaint community features Danish bakeries, cafes and shops that offer collectibles, jewelry, candles, wines, clothing and gifts galore.

"Fiction is what happens when truth changes hands a few times."

Watercolor classes by Barnes-Roberts offered

The San Gabriel Fine Arts Association has a new instructor added to their roster of fine art instruction, Donna Barnes-Roberts, who has previously taught at the Colonnade in Pasadena and at Village Fine Arts in San Gabriel. Two classes are offered by Barnes-Roberts, "Watercolor," in five-week sessions.

Sessions are Wednesdays, 7-10 p.m., Jan. 13 through Feb. 10, and Thursdays, 9 a.m. to noon, Jan. 14 through Feb. 11.

Both of these classes are for beginning to advanced students. The focus will be on floral painting, but advanced students are encouraged to explore other subjects as well.

Small class size of six students per session, ensures that there will be plenty of individualized instruction.

The San Gabriel Fine Arts Association also offers classes in pastels, portraiture, oils and china painting.

For information on these classes call (818) 791-0851. For information regarding all other classes, call the San Gabriel Fine Arts Association Gallery at (818) 282-1448.

On the other hand, the degree of puzzlement in the audience may very well send them to the library to read the book.

Another of Serendipity's announcements states that children who attend theater read more than their peers and that librarians report that children borrow stories at a rate seven time greater than normal after seeing them in a stage play.

Again, no surprises. I remember when an advertising line for movies was "Read the book! See the picture!," but it has gradually come home to me that it is better, these days, to see the movie - or stage play, whatever - first, because, theater (and yes, movie) fan that I am, books do it better, so much better that, with rare exceptions, the movie disappoints. However, if you see the movie first, and it stands alone well, the book gives you further pleasure, and if the movie is confusing, the book can clear it up.

But I digress.

The young audience of the Serendipity is courteous, the stage effects are ingenious and the actors are proficient. At the second performance, traditionally a let-down, the lighting was erratic and the timing a bit off, but it certainly holds your attention. Tamara Hoffman has the emotionally tricky role of Meg, the heroine; Thomas Odell is self-possessed and precise as her brother; and Alex La Flamme has considerable charm as her school friend. Diane Benedict, David Prather, Patrick Cummings, Elizabeth Jee and Marie Ruiz provide assorted parents and interplanetary aliens in a variety of effective costumes.

"A Wrinkle in Time" plays through Feb. 14 at 366 N. La Cienega in L.A. Call (310) 652-9199 for more information.

THE END OF CHRISTMAS — City workers brave the heavy rains to take down the end of the Christmas/holiday decorations. Here, they are removing the creche and all of the straw that was inside the holy decoration. The creche is in storage until next year at this time.

Smoke detector recall announced

Six brands of battery-powered smoke detectors are being recalled because they may not sound an alarm in the event of a fire, according to a release forwarded to The News from Beth Stogner, public education coordinator for the Arcadia Fire Department.

Consumers who purchased a battery-powered smoke detector on or after July 10, 1992 are urged to check the units to see if they are involved in this recall.

The brand names, firms which distribute the alarms in question, affected models' date and code include Slim Line by Black & Decker, SMK100,200, 300, 9228-9246; Code 1 2000, Jameson Home products, Inc., Models A, C and D, 921-92 to 92231; Kidde Smoke and Fire Alarm, Walter Kidde Portable Equipment, KSA700, 92192-92231; Baby's Room Smoke & Fire Alarm, Safety First, 244, 92192-92231; Safety's Sake, Funtech, Model A, 92192-92231; and Firex, Maple Chase, Model A and B, 921-92 to 92231.

To determine an affected smoke detector, the consumer should examine the label on the back of the smoke detector for the model and date codes listed above. Should it be one of the listed models, call 1-800-952-1331 for Black & Decker units and 1-800-492-4949 for all other brands.

To date there have been no reports of injuries or damage resulting from failure of these smoke detectors. Seatt Corporation, the manufacturer of the smoke detectors, voluntarily reported the problem to the Consumer Product Safety Commission, which has announced the recall.

Volunteers needed

Volunteer opportunities in the Pasadena Unified School District will be highlighted at the Pasadena Unified School District Partners in Education Reception to be held on Tuesday, Jan. 19, 5:30-7 p.m. at the Pasadena Hilton Hotel.

Sponsored by the Adopt-a-School Council, the reception will offer people, firms and organizations the chance to meet representatives of the Pasadena Unified School District and to learn of the many opportunities to volunteer in the schools.

Addressing the reception will be Dr. Vera Vignes, superintendent of schools, who will give an update of the Education Summit held in November and the next steps in developing a vision and action plan for the district.

Classic Spanish, steeped in history, rich in detail. Glorious original detailing. All updating expertly done to incorporate the desirable features of today with the architecture and style of this bygone era.

Come feast your eyes on this harvest of amenities.

Methodist

By Rev. Rich LaShure

I love to watch football, but I know that not everyone shares my enthusiasm for the sport which has been defined as "22 men exercizing, in desperate need of rest, being watched by 50,000 people resting, in desperate need of exercise." Football widows and widowers, be at peace: Super Bowl Sunday is only a little more than two weeks away.

This Sunday, Jan.17, our pulpit guest will be Rev. Daniel Towler, United Methodist Campus Minister at Cal State Los Angeles. To his friends he is known as "Deacon Dan." Deacon Dan Towler was an All-Pro running back for the Los Angeles Rams, part of the awesome "Bull Elephant Backfield" that helped the Rams win the NFL championship game in 1951. That year, Towler was the league's number one utility back, rushing for nearly 900 yards and scoring 13 rushing touchdowns himself.

Now here's a question for you football buffs: Can you name the three other players in the Bull Elephant Backfield? They were Dick Horner, Tank Younger and Elroy "Crazylegs" Hirsch. One more: what was the opposing team the Rams played for the 1951 championssip? The Cleveland Browns, final score Rams 24, Browns 17.

Towler brought prayer to the Rams' huddles and served as the team's chaplain. He also founded the Pasadena Chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. He believes that the potent combination of God and sports enables thousands and thousands of young people to grow toward a bright future, in the world of pro sports as well as in any other chosen career.

Worship with us this Sunday and find a friend!

Congregational

Service times at Sierra Madre Congregational Church are 7:30, 8:45, 10:05 and 11:25 a.m. on Jan. 17.

Pastor Anderson will be speaking from Luke 11: 5-13, "God Give Us the Best."

When we pray we often expect less from God than we do from one another. Isn't that a bit strange? Though we know God is perfect and we are sinful, we sometimes don't expect God to be as kind as we would be to each other. When this happens we must realize something is wrong. Examine your picture of God. Ask yourself, if I who am sinful am able to give good things to my children, how much more will my sinless Father in Heaven give me good things when I come to Him? In our text this week, Jesus tells us that God wants to give us the best.

On Sunday evening, "The Paradox of Freedom and Responsibility" will be the theme. The natural tendency to run from responsibility to find freedom results in just the opposite - bondage! Running from responsibility makes our lives "slow-moving targets" for the enemy of our souls. On the other hand, taking responsibility for one's own decisions is the first step toward maturity and paradoxically, it also results in greater freedom. Come tonight as Pastor Anderson leads us in exploring the liberating power in taking responsibility for our choices.

Good Shepherd

Speakers and topics have been announced for the second Sunday, Jan. 17, of the new "education hour" at Church of the Good Shepherd.

Paul Lambert, licensed clinical social worker (LCSW) and a member of Good Shepherd, will focus on relationships in the Adult Forum topic of "Maintaining Your Faith in a Chaotic World." The forum meets in Jordan Hall at 9 a.m.

The Adult Bible Study meeting in the Adult Education Center at the same hour will consider "What Good is Prayer?" led by Dr. Tulane Peterson of Fuller Theological Seminary, Pasadena, and Vaughn Dennis, M.A., School of Theology, Claremont.

Church services are now held at 8 and 10 a.m.

A prayer service and communion in the sanctuary at 9 a.m. is a third option for the congregation.

At 9 a.m., children may attend choir practice, an educational "discovery" program, or Youth Bible Study for both junior high and senior high students, with activities, games and crafts. Child care is provided for babies through 4-year-olds. Regular Children's Church School and child care remain at 10 a.m.

A Mandarin Chinese service will be conducted by Rev. Matthew Chong at 11:15 a.m. in the chapel.

Church of the Good Shepherd is at 400 W. Duarte Rd. in Arcadia.

The baptism of Jesus

"We have been commemorating the beautiful events of the infancy of Jesus since Christmas Day. In the liturgy of this past Sunday, however, we witnessed Jesus as an adult. We see Him being baptized, and we hear the voice of God the Father saying to Him, 'You are my beloved Son. On You My favor rests.'

"The liturgical Feast of the Baptism of the Lord concludes the Church's celebration of Christmas. It helps to remind us that Jesus was born to be our Savior. His baptism marks the beginning of His public ministry which culminates in His paschal sacrifice, His death and resurrection. Jesus was born to die. He came into the world to offer Himself in a perfect sacrifice to His heavenly Father for the salvation of the whole world. All through His life Jesus was on a relentless journey to the city of Jerusalem since it was there that He would fulfill His mission.

"Although the baptism of Jesus was not the sacrament which we receive, our baptism is related to His. Our baptism marked the beginning of our Christian lives. God the Father looked upon us with pride and declared, 'You are my beloved children, my sons and daughters, upon whom my favor rests.'

"Because we are the sisters and brothers of Jesus, as part of God's family, we share his destiny. Baptism begins our journey up to Jerusalem with Christ to share in His paschal mystery. The journey will culminate for us, as it did for Jesus, with death and resurrection. But the Christian life is a constant, relentless journey with Christ up to Jerusalem.

"The Church, our place of worship, is our Jerusalem. Our gathering every Sunday is the enduring characteristic of the sons and daughters of God. The Eucharist is our paschal sacrifice, our sacrament of sharing in the death and resurrection of Christ. As we enter our spiritual Jerusalem we find a font. We bless ourselves with its holy water. That action is meant to be a reminder of our baptism, that great event which brought us into God's family and formed us into such an intimate union with the Son of God that His destiny is our own." (Taken from the words of Rev. Charles E. Miller in the Tidings.)

Bethany

By Pastor Barney Hamady

Everyone of us is on a journey with clear and predictable stages. We've been exploring in the Old Testament this process as demonstrated in the people of Israel. They become an example to us.

First they descended into Egypt. Egypt became for them a place of oppression and slavery. It's easy to see ourselves in this picture slip-sliding into and struggling with the things that oppress and enslave us.

Next, we see how God miraculously brought them out of slavery and pushed them forward towards their final destination, Canaan, the land flowing with milk and honey. But before they reached Canaan they wandered for a while in the wilderness. Again, how often have we felt like we were wandering around in life, stuck in a prolonged hike to nowhere? Finally, after much toil and sweat, they reach the land of promise.

Each one of these stages of the journey represent aspects of our own personal journey. And no matter what stage we're in, Canaan or Egypt, the common ingredient in each stage was that God never abandoned them but accompanied them through both their darkest and brightest moments.

Biblical Archaeology Society meeting Jan. 15

A special meeting of the Los Angeles Chapter, Biblical Archaeology Society, will be held Friday, Jan. 15, at 7:30 p.m. at the Arcadia branch of Glendale Federal Bank, Community Room, 100 S. First Ave., Arcadia.

Featured speaker will be Bob Mullins, lecturer at the Institute of Holy Land Studies, Jerusalem, now completing a doctorate in archaeology at Hebrew University, Jerusalem. Mullins will speak on Beth Shan and Ekron, recent excavations of cities used by the ancient Philistines.

The meeting is open to the public. There will be refreshments and a donation is requested. For more information call (818) 287-7515.

Family Film Night offered at Bethany

"Treasures of the Snow," a two-hour motion picture shot in the Swiss Alps, will be shown at Bethany Church Ministry Center on Friday, Jan. 22 at 7 p.m. for a donation of $1. Based on Patricia St. John's popular novel of the same name, the film is intended for all family viewing.

The film's dramatic opening shows Lucien, a boy of 13, teasing Dani, a younger boy from the neighboring farm. Suddenly, the little boy slips and falls off a cliff. Dani is very seriously injured for life, and although it was an accident, his older sister, Annette, vows to make Lucien pay dearly for his involvement. Eventually, community rejection drives Lucien close to despair. He finds refuge with a kind and wise old woodcarver, high in the mountains, and this gives Lucien hope that he may eventually earn forgiveness and regain acceptance, even though his first efforts at reconciliation are rejected by Annette.

The director, Mike Pritchard, has captured the vengeance versus forgiveness struggle very realistically and many viewers will recall their own Annette-Lucien conflicts when they see this picture. In any case, the story ends on a really upbeat note, and families are invited to an entertaining evening together viewing this film.

For more information call Bethany Church at 355-1403.

Obituaries

Thomas B. Padilla

Funeral services are planned for Saturday, Jan. 16, for Thomas B. Padilla, long-time resident of Sierra Madre. Mr. Padilla died Jan. 9 at the age of 91.

Services are scheduled for 11 a.m. at the Douglass and Zook Colonial Chapel, Monrovia, with interment at Sierra Madre Cemetery. Visitation hours at Douglass and Zook are from 4 to 8 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 15.

Mr. Padilla was preceded in death by his wife, Pearl, who died Jan. 8, 1991.

Survivors include his son, Thomas E. Padilla, and daughters, Nancy Vargas and Barbara Hall; six grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Johanna Horne

Funeral services will be held tomorrow, Friday, Jan. 15, for Johanna Horne of Sierra Madre who died the evening of Jan. 3. She will be interred next to her husband in Pasadena Mausoleum. Rev. Richard Anderson will conduct services.

Mrs. Horne was born July 2, 1891 in Koblenz, Germany.

Survivors include a son, Fred Horne, of Gig Harbor, Wash., and four grandchildren: Fred Horne, Patricia Turner, Richard and Cecilia Horne.

Edna I. Johnson

Memorial services will be held Sunday, Jan. 17, for Edna I. Johnson, mother of Richard Johnson of Sierra Madre, at San Gabriel United Methodist Church, 201 N. San Gabriel Blvd., at 3 p.m. Rev. Phillip Wood will officiate. Private graveside services were held Jan. 4 at Live Oak Memorial Park in Monrovia.

Mrs. Johnson died Christmas Eve, Thursday, Dec. 24 at the age of 92.

She was born Jan. 19, 1900, in Houghton, S.D., and attended Aberdeen Business College. She married Mernie Johnson and they came to Los Angeles in 1925, moving 10 years later to San Gabriel. After Mr. Johnson's death, she lived in San Gabriel until her death.

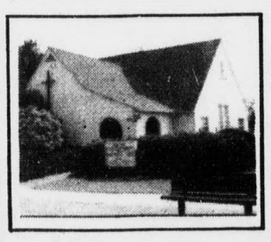

Survivors include a sister, Esther Swanson, 95, of Aberdeen, S.D.; her son, Richard and daughter-in-law, Elva Johnson, of Sierra Madre; daughter Shirley Pearson and son-in-law, Carl Pearson, of San Gabriel; 12 grandchildren and 25 great-grandchildren.

'Entertainment' books on sale for Kiwanis

The Kiwanis Club of Sierra Madre has been selling the popular "Entertainment" books as a fund raiser. To date, over 80 area residents have purchased the books, which provide discounts on dining, hotels, movies and other forms of entertainment.

Fund-raiser chairman Hank Landsberg wants residents to know that Entertainment books will be available only through the end of January at the cost of $38. Books are available for the San Gabriel Valley, Los Angeles, Orange County, Inland Empire, San Diego and Las Vegas.

To order a book, call Landsberg at 355-3656. The deadline for orders is Friday, Jan. 29. All books will be available for pickup the following week.

The Sierra Madre Kiwanis Club wishes to thank all who have purchased a book as well as the employees of Bank of America and Sanwa Bank for their help in making this fund-raiser a success.

Little Stuga grows twice as big with expansion

Little Stuga is expanding to almost twice its usual space in Sierra Madre, taking over the space vacated by At The Beach, owned by Susan Taylor Colby.

"Come watch our work in progress, come watch us grow," Joan Sheets, owner of Little Stuga, said last week.

She added, "It will open up the area and give us much-needed room. I'm really excited about the addition."

Sheets pointed to the two large walk-through areas that will be punched out between the two businesses, saving the shelves that are located in the At The Beach store.

Sheets explained that they will have more paper goods, cards, rubber stamps, books and an educational area over there and she plans to keep the gift side in the present Little Stuga area on the east side of the building.

In the present dressing room, Sheets is installing a dog and cat emporium where she will have for sale "fun doggy and kitty things," she explained.

Sheets looks forward to hearing teachers' input on what they'd like since educators get a cost break when they purchase for school. Senior citizens get a special discount on things purchased on Wednesdays at Little Stuga, also.

When will the renovation be completed? By the end of January.

Sheets purchased the business four years ago, on Aug. 16. She was in the financial world before changing directions.

Also added are more Sheets employees in the store: Heather, her sister-in-law, wife of brother Frank, has joined Joan as well as Joan's mother, Frances Sheets. Elizabeth Converse, Joan's sister, is also the artist who does the painted furniture.

Any more family members participating?

"Well, there's Will and Joan Clair Richter, Elizabeth's children, and Ted Sheets, Heather and Frank's son. They all help me at the store, too," Sheets answered.

Joan Sheets, owner of Little Stuga

Sam Perloff, who owns both buildings, is described by Sheets as "a wonderful landlord who has always encouraged me."

Stop in and see Joan and the rest of the family at Little Stuga.

Russian students visit Sierra Madre

Both finished high school and were attending that university, Kostrykina studying to be an interpreter and Avdyushkina, an English teacher. Avdyushkina graduates this year; however, Kostrykina has one more year of college.

Both came from families in which their fathers are engineers; their mothers, teachers. Kostrykina's father is a construction engineer while her mother is an elementary school teacher. Avdyushkina's father is a civil engineer and her mother teaches English. Both women speak flawless English with only a hint of an accent.

They describe themselves as middle class.

"It is hard to save money since everything goes into (purchasing) food. Prices are very high," said Kostrykina. The changes in Russia are "good changes and will help the country": Avdyushkina. Salaries are low; however, unemployment is very low. Housing is subsidized by the government.

The Edwards met Kostrykina when she was their interpreter while they vacationed in Siberia, and they invited her to visit them over Christmas holidays. They have run the gamut: Disneyland, Knotts Berry Farm, the zoo, Gene Autrey Museum, art museums, Huntington Art Museum and Gardens, Big Bear....

They like American hamburgers, ice cream, a little Mexican food, different from the cucumbers and cabbage fare which is popular in Russia.

How are American youth different?

"Our boys have better manners. So do our girls," they agreed hesitantly.

What is different and what have they learned? Living with Americans is not much different. It is easy for them to communicate, they say.

Would your reporter be able to distinguish them from American youth? No. They are all beautiful.

HOW TO KEEP ANGORA LOVELY

Angora is so soft and so fluffy . . . .

We like it, you like it, they like it. In fact nearly everybody likes Angora except maybe the rabbit who wears it originally.

Let's take a look at this luxury item and see what you need to know to keep it soft and lovely.

Angora fur has two sorts of fur fiber in it — long guard hair and short fur hairs. These two fibers felt together in the cleaning process unless carefully handled. This means hand cleaning.

So don't trust your Angora to clumsy or inexperienced hands. It will only come back to you matted and stuck together. And for this there is no remedy.

Instead, do the smart thing. Entrust it to the skillful, experienced hands of a careful cleaner who will return it to you in the same soft and fluffy condition as when you bought it.

Are we talking to anybody in particular? Certainly. We're asking you to . . .

The ARWC board of directors meets monthly on the second Thursday of each month, 8:30 a.m., at Republican Headquarters, 43 C E. Huntington Dr., Arcadia. General membership luncheons are held on the third Thursday of each month at 10:15 a.m. at the Santa Anita Golf Course clubhouse.

Hospital auxiliary to hear ophthalmologist speak Jan. 19

Harold Ward, MD, whose practice is in the field of ophthalmology, will present a program entitled "Cataract and Refractive Surgery Update for 1993" at the Tuesday, Jan. 19 meeting of the Auxiliary of the Methodist Hospital. The general meeting will begin at 10 a.m., following a coffee and social period in Lewis Hall at 9:30 a.m.

A native of Aberdeen, Wash., Dr. Ward graduated from Stanford University and the University of Southern California School of Medicine.

He has been in private practice in Arcadia since 1963 and has served as president of the Foothill District of the Los Angeles County Medical Association. He has been assistant clinical professor of ophthalmology at USC since 1969 and currently is on the staff of Doheny Eye Hospital and Methodist Hospital.

Dr. Ward, his wife and two sons live in Arcadia.

For more information about the auxiliary meeting or in volunteer work at the hospital, call 574-3646.

Annual Spaghetti Dinner set Jan. 23

In celebration of the dedication and accomplishments of the Arcadia High School Apache Marching Band, the Arcadia Music Club will present the 26th annual Apache Spaghetti Dinner on Saturday, Jan. 23.

The traditional spaghetti dinner will be served from 4-8:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria, and in the North Gym at 6 and 8 p.m. The Apache Band, Auxiliary Guard and Banner Princesses will present a program.

The band and auxiliary units, which won various awards and trophies for their musical ability and precision movements during the 1992 competition season, participated in the 104th Rose Parade on Jan. 1.

Tickets, which include dinner and admission to one show, are $6 for adults and 14 for children 11 years and younger. Tickets will be available at the door or may be obtained in advance by calling the AHS music room at 821-6688.

Garden Club plans Ameriflora program

Dr. Roy and Ysabel Fetterman will share slides and stories about their trip to the Ameriflora in Columbus, Ohio, when the Rancho de Duarte Garden Club meets on Tuesday, Jan. 19, 12:30 p.m., at the Church of the Foothills, 1014 Highland Ave. in Duarte.

Nearly every country in the world was represented in the International Flower Show, which was opened by President and Mrs. Bush.

For further information about the meeting, which is open to the public, call Mildred Shaw at 447-8826 or Dorothy Schwab, 357-9575.

Recently, the club adopted a new philanthropic project, the purchase of a lemon tree for each Habitat Home in the area. The first Habitat Home in the San Gabriel Valley was completed in Pasadena, and the Garden Club donated its first 30-gallon frost-free Eureka lemon tree for the yard, reports Shaw, who is project chairman.

Rancho de Duarte Garden Club is a member of the National Council of State Garden Clubs and California Garden Clubs, Inc.

Catholics meet in packing house

In 1935 services of the Catholic Church of the Holy Angeles were held in a packing house acquired from the Pacific Electric Railway and moved to the church property at Holly Avenue and Huntington Drive.

Council recap

Councilman questions soundwalls, debt option

Councilman Robert Harbicht was the lone dissenter on three fiscal issues at last week's meeting of the Arcadia City Council.

Harbicht objected to a resolution which would give the city the option to issue bonds to finance a new fire station, the expansion and remodel of the library and the parking lot addition to Santa Anita Fashion Park. The councilman contended that the city has the money to invest and that causing the city to go into debt "to the tune of $9 million" was "taking chances with city money." He went on to describe the situation as "voodoo financing." He also said that taxpayers of the city "sleep good at night knowing we have no bonded indebtedness."

It was pointed out that the resolution, which passed 4-1, does not obligate the city to issue bonds but preserves the city's option in the event the council chooses to issue revenue bonds at some later date.

Questioning how effective the soundwall would be and how many people would be affected, Harbicht also balked at the proposed soundwall project on the westbound 210 Freeway from Second Avenue to Fifth Avenue. Without answers to the question, Harbicht suggested that the council was "operating in the dark."

The council went on to approve contributing 33 percent of the estimated cost of the soundwall project, which would be approximately $230,000 in hopes of receiving priority over other soundwall projects.

Joseph Lopez, director of public works, said that funds would come from gas tax, which is distributed by the state to cities for streets and highways.

Councilman Robert Margett suggested that it was a "deal and a half," what with the state picking up two-thirds of the cost of the project.

Even though the fiscal impact is not as great as the two previously reported projects, Harbicht also objected to the purchase of new lapel microphones for council chambers, suggesting that the old ones were in working order. The total cost of the new microphones, as approved on a 4-1 vote, will not exceed $2400.

In other action, the council unanimously approved an appeal of the Planning Commission's denial of a request to approve decorative metal gates at a residence in the 200 block of Arbolada.

Last week's council meeting was the first to be televised by CableVision, Channel 56.

Nordstrom to break ground Jan. 21

The groundbreaking for a new Nordstrom store at Santa Anita Fashion Park will be held on Thursday, Jan. 21 at 2 p.m.

Officials from Santa Anita Realty, The Hahn Company and the city of Arcadia will gather at the interior entrance of the new 136,334-square foot store for a "ribbon cutting," which actually will be an explosion of a wall of balloons.

A 50-foot long computer-generated graphic of the future store will adorn the entrance until the completion of the store, scheduled for 1994.

The public is invited to share a commemorative cake on Jan. 21, at 2:30 p.m. in Center Court.

The Santa Anita Fashion Park Nordstrom will be the 54th store for the Seattle-based firm.

Mixer to offer wine tasting at golf course Sunset Room

"A Night of Grape Expectations" is the theme for the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce Business Mixer set for Wednesday, Jan. 20, 5-7:30 p.m., in the Sunset Room of the Santa Anita Golf Course.

Executive chef Hecto Reyes will present a variety of international cuisine to accompany the selections of wines from top wineries in Northern California.

Assisting with plans for the wine tasting party and business mixer are Luis Lomeli, banquet captain, and Linda Mitchell, catering director for the Sunset Room, which can accommodate events for 50 to 300 guests in the clubhouse at the Santa Anita Golf Course.

Chamber members, their co-workers, friends and prospective members are invited to the Business Mixer.

For reservations at 16 per person, call the chamber at 447-2159.

Signups for Young Reader Program

Registration for the spring session of "Time for Twos" and "Preschool Storytime" in the Jerry Broadwell Children's Room at the Arcadia Public Library will begin at 10 a.m. on Monday, Jan. 18.

"Time for Twos," a program designed for boys and girls from 24-36 months, will run from Feb. 2 to Mar. 3 and will be held on Tuesdays at 10:15 a.m. and Wednesdays at 6:45 p.m. Stories, fingerplays, flannelboards, songs and activities make this sharing time between a participating adult and child a fun way to become familiar with the library, according to Karen Klingman, a spokesman for the Children's Room.

"Preschool Storytime" will begin the first week in February and will continue through the last week in April on Mondays at 1 p.m. and Thursdays at 6:45 and 7:30 p.m. This program is designed for children 3-6 years of age and will include stories, flannel boards, puppet plays, activities and videos.

In-person registration is required for these free programs. Space is limited.

Call 446-7112 for more information.

FIRST AVENUE JOINS 'CORE' — First Avenue Junior High School teacher Bill Manley, right, discusses with eighth grader Billy Liu the additional computer possibilities now that the school has joined CORE.

CORE helps students trade electronic mail, do research

Students at First Avenue Junior High School now have the opportunity to meet and exchange electronic mail with computer enthusiasts from around the world as the junior high is the first in the Arcadia Unified School District to join CORE, California On-Line Resources for Educators.

CORE, which began one year ago under the auspices of the University of California, is accessed through a computer with a modem and connects students and teachers to people all over the world through "Internet," explained Bill Manley, the First Avenue computer teacher, who reports that at least 30 students logged into the Bulletin Board System during the Christmas break.

After the first week of vacation, a never-ending science fiction story already was 20 pages long. Everyone was trying to "one up the other" as they add to the story via their computers, said Manley.

"Among the overwhelming opportunities available on CORE is the ability to search national libraries for information about any research the staff or students are engaged in, i.e. term papers, doctoral research, etc. This information can be found using an electronic assistant called 'Ask Eric,' which is the latest state-of-the-art information retrieval tool available for libraries," added Manley, who has been teaching at First Avenue for 23 years.

Students also have the opportunity to access CORE, for fun and research, from home, using the telephone and their own computers. Manley said that a good percentage of students have computers. Eighth grader Billy Liu, who claims to spend "lots of time" on the computer at home, said that he's really interested in the new services available with CORE.

For students without home computers, First Avenue offers its Telecommunications Room, which is open every morning before school and often after school.

CORE is accessed through a computer with a modem that First Avenue purchased with library funds and with the help of Steve Wang of Longwell Computers in Arcadia. Costs to log-on to the network are covered by donations from major corporations and the state, explained Manley, who added that the only cost is for the phone line service.

Whether they are playing games or chatting with other computer users, communicating with keypals or doing research, First Avenue students are "seeing a whole new world through computers," explained Manley. "When you see kids' eyes light up, see their excitement.... That's what teaching is all about."

Friends offer silent auction books

"The Johnstown Flood" by David McCullough and "America is in Danger" by General Curtis LeMay are two books published in 1968 which are being offered in the Friends of the Library silent auction currently on display in the circulation area at the Arcadia Public Library. The auction, which generates funds for library supplies and services, will close at noon on Saturday, Feb. 6.

Other items include "Lincoln Talks, A Biography in Anecdotes" compiled by Emanuel Hertz in 1941; "California Gold Rush Voyages" published in 1954; "South Pasadena, A Centennial History" by Jane Apostol; and "Threes Worth Knowing," written by Julia Rogers and published in 1925.

"Spanish Style" by Slesin, Cliff and Rozensztroch, with a forward by Paloma Picasso, is filled with color photos and comes in dust jacket.

Chamber seeks 'Citizen' nominations

Nomination forms are available at the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce for Arcadia's 1993 Citizen of the Year Award.

This year's recipient will be honored at the 70th annual chamber installation dinner to be held at the Arcadia Community Center on Mar. 20.

Jim Wallin, an insurance executive, was the first to receive the Citizen of the Year Award in 1964. Since then 38 individuals have been recognized for their service to the community. Last year's recipient was Monty Lindsey.

For more information about the award and to receive a nomination form, call the chamber at 447-2159.

Two booked for armed robbery

Two Pasadena residents in their 20s were arrested for armed robbery following an incident which happened in the parking lot at Denny's, in the first block of E. Huntington, before 4 a.m. on the morning of Sunday, Jan. 10.

The female victim left the restaurant and went to her car where she alledgedly was verbally harrassed by a male Hispanic, later identified as 24-year-old Adolfo Lopez. He asked for her purse; and because it was dark outside and because she did not have her glasses on, the victim could not see what the assailant had in his hand, until he pointed a gun at her face.

She surrendered the purse, and the suspect entered a waiting vehicle, leaving northbound on Santa Anita. A witness was able to get the license plate number, which helped the Monrovia Police Department apprehend the suspects, who were then positively identified by the victim and her daughter.

Also arrested was Jose Perez, 21, reported to be the driver of the getaway car. The two suspects were booked by the Arcadia Police Department.

Chamber sponsors new networking opportunity

The Get Acquainted Business Club, an effort to expand the business exposure of participating merchants, will hold its first meeting on Wednesday, Jan. 20, 7:30 a.m., at the Arcadia Chamber of Commerce.

Sponsored by the Chamber Membership Task Force, the "club" meeting will allow participants to meet new business contacts and introduce their own products or services. Local business representatives are invited to attend this networking opportunity.

A continental breakfast will be served.

Call the chamber at 447-2159 to make reservations.

KARNIGIAN TURNS 100 — Centenarian Charles Karnigian receives a Certificate of Commendation in celebration of his 100th birthday from Mayor George Fasching.

Karnigian credits yogurt for helping him reach 100

Charles Karnigian, whose 100th birthday was celebrated last week by the Arcadia Senior Friendship Club, reports that his secret to longevity is the daily servings of his homemade yogurt.

His two daughters, Pasadena residents Harriet and Joan, a son-in-law, several grandchildren and a great grandson as well as Mayor George Fasching, were on hand to help Karnigian celebrate his birthday.

Karnigian, who was born in Erzurum, Armenia on Jan. 7, 1893, left his homeland when he was 15 years old. Both his mother and father had died, and an older sister had sent him a ticket for the boat trip to America.

He stayed in a boarding house in Marseilles, France while waiting for the ticket. It was the first time he had ever seen electricity or trains. After four months in France, he was in a cafe when a man, who recognized Karnigian's accent and knew which province he was from, approached him. There had been a mix-up with travel agents and this man had Karnigian's boat ticket.

After a 12-day trip, he arrived at Ellis Island. Small for his age, he had to have his uncle send his birth certificate because he looked so young, and he could not get a job.

Karnigian lived with his sister in Massachusetts, where he worked, saved and paid her back for his ticket to America.

He later went to Detroit and ultimately to California, where he eventually opened a liquor store in Pasadena and in 1925 married Pauline Abajian.

Now retired, he keeps busy with his senior citizen activities and plays pinochle three or four times each week. He lives in his own apartment, and according to a family spokesman, "maintains his very independent spirit, which he displayed at age 15 when he traveled to America all by himself."

To help celebrate Karnigian's 100th birthday, Mayor Fasching presented him with a certificate of commendation and announced that he would receive a free life-time pass on Dial-A-Ride.

Lamb designs winning floats

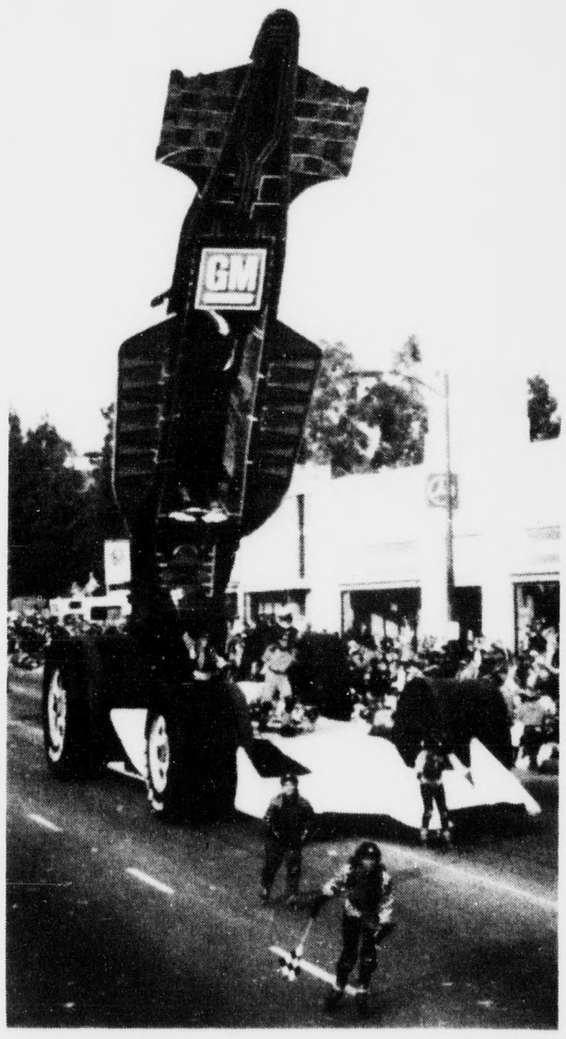

Inspired by a toy carrying chest made to look like a race car, Mike Lamb designed the award winning Rose Parade float for General Motors. The float was a race car with eight-foot wheels, which opened up to reveal a group of rollerblade skaters.

This float, entitled "Entertainment on Wheels," which won the trophy for the Best Display of Animation, was one of two designs created by Lamb for the 104th Rose Parade. His design for Unocal's "St. George and the Dragon" won the Grand Marshal's trophy for Most Creative Design.

Scott Lamb, Mike Lamb's brother, who is art director for float builder C.E. Bent and Son, rode on the float as St. George. "This was real fun to design," said Mike Lamb, whose first attempt at designing floats came two years ago when he did one for KMart and an award-winning "Wizard" for General Motors.

Mike Lamb was an art major at Cal State University, Los Angeles and has been a part of the family mortuary business for the last 22 years. Two years ago he was elected to his first term on the Arcadia Board of Education.

Even though the Pasadena Tournament of Roses has not announced the 1994 theme, Lamb reports that he already is working with his brother on designs for next year's parade.

Improved math scores reported

Arcadia High School students achieved an average score of 597 on the mathematics portion of the Scholastic Aptitude Test during the last reporting period, placing AHS second out of the 49 districts in Los Angeles County and just one point behind first place San Marino.

The 1992 scores showed an increase of 28 points from 1991.

Nationwide, the average SAT math score was 476 last year, while the California average was 484. SAT scores range from 200-800 on each of the test's two sections, math and verbal.

Maranatha gets shutouts; Mitchell scores hat trick

Celeste Mitchell scored a hat trick for Maranatha High School's girls' soccer team, which began Alpha League competition last week with two shutouts. Mitchell scored on two assists from Becca Evans and an unassisted goal as Maranatha defeated Marshall 8-0 on Thursday.

Darlene Avolio scored two goals on assists from Evans and Mitchell in the win. Others scoring were Deanna Depaolis, Sharon Smith assist; Smith, Nicole Decker assist; and Evans, unassisted.

Maranatha led 28-5 in shots on goal and 7-2 in corner kicks. Paige Haller made two saves as the Maranatha goalie.

In the league opener on Tuesday, Maranatha downed Sacred Heart of Jesus, 6-0, as six players scored. Mitchell, Evans and Jaime Jesperson scored unassisted goals. Others scoring were Roilynn Arnett, on a Smith assist; Avolio, assisted by Decker; and Nancy Ilharreguy, on a Mitchell assist.

Maranatha defense kept Sacred Heart away from its goal, taking a 47-0 lead in shots on goal. Maranatha also led in corner kicks, 7-0.

Apaches lose league opener

In spite of going into league competition with a 13-2 record, the Arcadia High School boys' basketball team had trouble in its first Pacific League game and ended up losing a 62-60 decision to Glendale in the league opener on Friday.

The Apaches actually led 49-48 going into the final period, but were outscored 14-11 in the fourth quarter.

Matt Campbell scored 17 points, had five rebounds and six assists. Sung Yi led with eight rebounds, and Raffy Hajjar scored 12 points, all on three-point shots. Jeff Provenzano had 14 points.

In the final pre-league contest, Arcadia downed Monrovia 63-41 as Campbell led with 22 points and 14 rebounds. Provenzano had 18 points, while Josh Sewell had nine rebounds and nine points.

In other action last week, the Apaches beat Temple City, 76-48. Provenzano led with 22 points, and Campbell scored 16 points and hauled in 10 rebounds. Chris Cosby scored 12, and Hajjar connected on a pair of three-point shots.

Arcadia faced Muir on Tuesday and will travel to Crescenta Valley on Friday, Jan. 15 for a 7:30 p.m. league contest.

Alexander, Haynes, Velez lead La Salle in first basketball year

Heather Alexander has scored an average of 18.2 points per game to lead the La Salle High School girls' basketball team, which began Camino Real League action last week with a 58-24 loss to Bell-Jeff, which is ranked fourth in CIF IVA.

La Salle stayed close, finishing the first half down by just two, 15-13; however, Bell-Jeff's full court pressure "got to us," according to coach John Matheus. The Lancers were outscored 26-1 in the third period.

Alexander led with 13 points, while Veronic Velez led with six rebounds in the loss last week Tuesday.

In non-league action last week, the La Salle girls, who are playing their first varsity season, lost to San Gabriel 75-36. Alexander scored 15 points, while Theresa Haynes had 10 points.

The Lancers began the season with a 4-4 record, registering wins over San Marino (47-20), Montclair Prep (53-36), Westridge (49-36) and San Gabriel Mission (50-31).

This week, La Salle faced St. Monica on Monday and will travel to St. Mary's today, Jan. 14, for a 7 p.m. game and to Cantell on Saturday, Jan. 16, 7 p.m., for Camino Real League games.

Rain gives Apaches time to mend

Rain forced the cancellation of Arcadia High School's girls' soccer game with Burroughs last week. The Lady Apaches took the week off to mend a bit after a busy and injury-plagued Christmas vacation, reports assistant coach John Garton.

However, two players are not expected to mend in time to resume action this season, according to Garton, who reports that Linsey Olsky broke her arm in the Ocean View Tournament and Shannon Cooley, a sophomore who was expected to see "more and more playing time," is out with a knee injury.

Arcadia, with a 12-1-1 record, was expected to begin Pacific League action on Tuesday of this week with a game against Muir and to travel to Alhambra today, Jan. 14, for a 3:15 p.m. league contest. On Friday, Jan. 15, 3:15 p.m., the Lady Apaches have scheduled a make-up game with Pasadena Poly, undefeated and the winner of two tournaments so far this season. The game will be played on the Poly field.

Lancers shut out Bulldogs; beat former soccer coach

Cherif Zein, the current Pasadena High School boys' soccer coach who used to coach at La Salle, met and was beaten by his former players last week. The Lancers shut out the Bulldogs, 4-0.

Four scored in the victory: Jeff Hinton, Albert Estepa, Ryan Hagen and Jason Marruffo.

The junior varsity also won a shutout over PHS, 3-0.

This week, the Lancers were scheduled to play Cantwell-Sacred Heart on Wednesday, Flintridge Prep at home today, Jan. 14, 3:30 p.m., and St. Monica away on Friday, Jan. 15, 3:30 p.m.

STEPHENS AT SANTA ANITA — Mark Stephens, who has been named director of marketing at Santa Anita Park, is pictured in his office at the race track.

Stephens named marketing director at Santa Anita

A keen interest in horse racing and a desire to be closer to family, have helped bring Mark Stephens back to Arcadia as director of marketing at Santa Anita Park.

Born in Arcadia and a 1981 graduate of Arcadia High School, Stephens went on to earn a B.A. in economics at the University of California at Berkeley. After two years with Goldman, Sachs and Co. in New York and Philadelphia, he went back to school for a Master's in Business Administration at Stanford Graduate School of Business.

While earning the MBA, he worked part time at Bay Meadows Race Course and after graduating in 1991, he became director of marketing at the San Mateo race track.

While at AHS and Cal Berkeley, Stephens played football, becoming a three-year starter at guard and tackle for the Bears. He was elected offensive captain by his teammates, named to the Second Team All Pacific 10 Football Team, awarded Honorable Mention on the Associated Press All American Football Team and was selected to play in the Japan Bowl All-Star Game.

He signed a two-year contract to play for the Pittsburgh Steelers for 1986-87 but suffered a career-ending neck injury, which halted his professional football career.

With his parents, Sheila and Tom Stephens, living in Arcadia and three of his four older brothers residing in the general vicinity, Stephens and his wife, Kim, who also is from Arcadia, were anxious to return to the southland to raise their 13-month-old son, Thomas, who is named after his paternal grandfather.

Even though he claims to have had an interest in horse racing since being a youngster growing up in Arcadia, Stephens, now 29, said that he never "dreamed" of working at Santa Anita. "It's an incredible opportunity to work for Cliff Goodrich (president and chief operating officer of the L.A. Turf Club, Inc.) and Steve Keller (a Berkeley alum who is president and CEO of Santa Anita Operating Co.), people I've known for a long time."

About the new director of marketing, Goodrich said, "Mark Stephens will be an asset to our marketing effort. In today's competitive climate, marketing is essential for race tracks to succeed, and we feel that adding Mark at the helm of our in-house development will help enable Santa Anita to forge ahead and maintain a level of success and leadership in our industry."

Alan Balch, who developed Santa Anita's marketing department starting in 1971, and his company, will continue as a marketing consultant and advertising agency for Santa Anita and Oak Tree.

McCarron rides two stakes winners

Chris McCarron rode winners in two featured races at Santa Anita Park last weekend. On Saturday, he rode Sir Beaufort for a win in the San Carlos Handicap and came back to win the El Encino Stakes on Pacific Squall on Sunday.

Santa Anita's stakes schedule this weekend includes the $200,000-added San Fernando Stakes on Saturday, Jan. 16; the $100,000-added San Gorgonio Handicap on Sunday, Jan. 17; and the $150,000-added Santa Monica Handicap on Monday, Jan. 18, Martin Luther King holiday.

Leading the nominations for the San Fernando are Bertrando, a third place finisher in the Malibu on opening day at Santa Anita, and The Wicked North, the second place horse.

Rain cancels soccer contest

Rain cancelled Maranatha High School's boys' soccer game with Pasadena Poly last Friday, and the game probably will not be rescheduled as it was a non-league contest, reported coach Juan Cuxil.

This week the Minutemen began Alpha League action when, weather permitting, they hosted L.A. Baptist on Tuesday. On Friday, Jan. 15, they will host Montclair Prep for a 2:30 p.m. contest.

Hagman helps Minutemen win

Matt Hagman scored a game-high 23 points to lead Maranatha High School's boys' basketball team to a 64-42 win over Cathedral last week. Hagman also had nine rebounds. Matt Reed added 12 points and led with 11 rebounds in a game which found the Minutemen leading throughout.

While Maranatha was good for over 50 percent from the floor, the Minutemen made only 13 of 29 attempts from the free-throw line.

The Minutemen tried a full-court press for the first time this year, and it worked "pretty well," according to assistant coach Keith Patefield.

In other action last week, the Minutemen lost a 91-49 decision to Glendora. Hagman led Maranatha scorers with 17 points and nine rebounds.

The Minutemen began Alpha League action on Tuesday when they met L.A. Baptist, which finished last year in a two-way tie for second place in league action. Maranatha came in fourth place. On Friday, Jan. 15, the Minutemen will host Montclair Prep, the league leader from last year, in a non-league contest at La Salle High School at 7:30 p.m.

Arian, Santucci score twice in La Salle soccer victory

Devon Arian and Antoinette Santucci each scored two goals as the La Salle High School girls' soccer team shut out Flintridge Sacred Heart, 7-0.

Other scorers were Lara Davini, Jamie Kelley and Laura Lockie.

La Salle, which is in its premiere varsity season, led in shots on goal 23-7. Goalies Meghan Kennedy and Lockie combined for seven saves.

The Lancers, whose record going into this week was 5-2-2, were scheduled to face Cantwell-Sacred Heart for the Camino Real League opener on Tuesday, today, Jan. 14, and will travel to St. Mary's, weather permitting, for a 3:30 p.m. league contest.

Ask Dr. Tami... PET KORNER This pet's for you...

Question: My dog's eyes have developed a bluish-gray haze. His vision seems normal. Could he be developing cataracts and will he go blind?

Answer: Not necessarily. As a dog ages, more lens cells are produced at the outer edge forcing older cells toward the center. The lens gradually becomes denser as these cells become more tightly packed. Thus, the lens appears to have a bluish-gray haze to it. You will notice this phenomenon in dogs that are around six years or older and it is called nuclear sclerosis. This is a normal aging process and it does not cause blindness.

Cataracts, on the other hand, can obscure vision. They may take many forms but generally they appear as dense white areas in the lens. As the cataract matures it will usually appear more white and diffuse. Cataracts can be surgically removed successfully in many cases by ophthamologists. It is important that if your dog does have a cataract that you monitor his eyes closely for redness or pain (blinking). In some cases a cataract will begin to break down and can cause severe inflammation in the eye leading to uveitis and sometimes glaucoma. If you notice these signs it is important to see your veterinarian as soon as possible for treatment.

If you have a question regarding your pet, write "Ask Dr. Tami," Box 3139, Arcadia, CA 90966-3139.

I'm a gorgeous Tortoise-colored domestic short haired female named Tabitha. I have beautiful green eyes. I'm 2 years old and ready to be spayed as soon as you decide to take me home. I have a great personality, and I'm very cuddly and affectionate. I'm hoping that when I "tweak" my nose, you'll appear at the Pasadena Humane Society to take me home. Then I can do what I do best - make your New Year happier! My kennel ticket number is 69134 - hurry! I can't wait for you to get me!
